

Tablet vs. Paper: how to take notes sustainably

We, a team of three university students studying Computer Science/Data Science, worked on a project analysing public data to answer the question: Which note-taking technique is more sustainable: using the tablet or old-fashioned paper? Below you can see our main results to allow you to make a sustainable choice wherever you are in the world with the focus on the criteria of your choice:

The development of the share of renewable energy and recyclable paper in Finland

World map showing the share of renewable energy in 2020

